MONTGOMERY COUNTY
PARALEGAL ASSOCIATION

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE:

BY JENNIFER ECHIKSON

New year, new me? New year, new MCPA! It's a cliché for a reason – the beginning of a new year brings a clean slate. It's a time to refresh and rethink goals, and a time to start anew.

It's my genuine hope that all our members had a wonderful and relaxing holiday season. As the holiday lights and music and cheer fade into memory, we enter this new year with new objectives and fresh hopes for the Association – as well as three new Board members! The MCPA would like to sincerely thank President Nancy Piechota and long-time Board Member Noreen Messmer for their years of service to the Board and we wish them much luck in any future endeavors. With their exit, we bring to the Board three new members – Kelly Bresadola, Kharissa Donahue, and Victoria Molloy. Welcome ladies! We know you'll be a fantastic addition to our team!

The Board held its first meeting of 2023 on January 5, 2023, where we nominated and elected the officers for 2023. Trista Davis remains as our Treasurer, Jennifer Kozlowski was elected Secretary, Dana Jorna is our new Vice-President, and I have the great honor of being your President. I thank everyone for their confidence in me and I hope I can be the President this wonderful Association deserves.

A little about me: I have been working almost exclusively in family law for about 20 years (with a brief foray into corporate law) and have been with Materese Family Law since its inception in August 2022. Prior to my time at MFL, I worked in the family law departments of Dischell Bartle Dooley, Weber Gallagher, and Wolf Block. I earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Paralegal Studies from Peirce College and hold a Pennsylvania paralegal certification from the Keystone Alliance of Paralegal Associations. In addition to being part of the MCPA Board, I am also a founding Board member and Vice-President of the Family Law Paralegals of Pennsylvania, as well as Secretary of the Keystone Alliance. Outside of work, I'm a member of various community organizations, including Soroptimist International of Phoenixville and Free Mom Hugs of Pennsylvania. I spend much of my free time reading and listening to podcasts.

Throughout this upcoming year, we intend to offer our members new and exciting CLE topics, as well as some fun social events. We see many of you through screens at our monthly CL,Es and while that is fantastic and we appreciate your attendance at these seminars, we'd like to get back to some in-person gatherings every few months. I'm very excited to begin this new phase of my career with MCPA and look forward to making this MCPA's best year ever!

A final note – our Board meetings are held on the first Thursday of every month at 6:15 p.m. via Zoom. We encourage all to attend.

SNEAKY METADATA AND ITS POSSIBLE LEGAL PITFALLS

BY VICTORIA MOLLOY

Do you know what metadata is? In our line of work, not knowing how easily metadata can expose attorney work product or divulge attorney-client privileged information can be dangerous. You can no longer think of your computer as a paperless typewriter. Files are not simply a computerized version of documents, where the only information they contain is what you see on the screen or eventually print out on paper. Every keystroke and click carries with it...more.

For purposes of this article, I am going to discuss metadata as it pertains to Word documents; however, one should note that Adobe and other programs are just as capable of exposing the same or similar information, just as easily. Here is our hypothetical:

While working on a legal matter, the parties have begun negotiating settlement terms. It is time to start drafting a formal written agreement. You open a new Word document and before typing, look at an empty page. Right? Not really. Your file already contains information such as the author, date and time created, as well as several other basic identifying measures imprinted as administrative metadata.

Now, you do not always reinvent the wheel. Into your new Word document, you cut and paste language from a boiler agreement or one previously used in another matter. You type over the necessary, changed parts and supplement it with what is needed currently. There is no trace of the former language and it is revised. Right? Not really. Your file contains carried over history from the borrowed portions of the poached document. Further, save the document and you add company/organization, name of your computer, network server, or hard disk location, file properties and summary information to its coding and structural metadata.

Finally, you are ready to forward the document to opposing counsel. This is only after you and several other contributors from the office (maybe even your client too) have circulated the document, making revisions and adding input, via comment or using redlining to suggest edits. You accepted all changes and finalize the document. Right? Not really. Your file still has portions of embedded objects, versions, template information, and hidden text not visible to the naked eye that contains descriptive metadata.

Metadata that remains or is present, is readily discoverable should someone have the means and motive. To remedy this, before sharing a Word document, ensure that it cannot reveal confidential or privileged information by using a removal tool and “scrubbing.”
